

Lucy: Well, there was a severe lack of chicks on the slalom tour this year, so I gauged my success on beating the guys. I came 6th overall and won respect off most of the slalom sailors, which was important to me. My international results do mean much more but for my sponsors it is important that I keep winning the UK events.

So Lucy didn't have many rivals this year, what about you Dan?

Dan: My main rivals were Aaran Williams and Dave McGuniess. Aaran is one of the best tactical sailors I get to compete with but his fitness does let him down. Dave McGuniess is from New Zealand but has lived in Maui for 4/5 years and done plenty of slalom racing. He was super fast in strong winds and always chasing my tail.

Looking cool, Dan, looking cool...

Lucy at the PWA Almanarre Event where she finished second.