

In the women's fleet, SHREEVE managed to defend her lead and won with 12.6 points. The delighted Australian commented, 'I am so happy. I had a great start into the regatta. But in the stronger winds the other girls gave me a hard time. In the lighter wind today I returned to my old strength and was able to ensure the victory.' However, she does not get the European title as she is not a European citizen. HORWOOD claimed that title in second position with 24.4 points. The new European champion said, 'I hoped to catch Allison. But in the light winds Allison presented the better performance. But I am happy to be European Champion now!' In third place, Verena FAUSTER (ITA) on 28,4 points squeezed in ahead of France's Sarah HEBERT on 31.4 points.

By the finish ALBEAU had achieved a clear victory with 17.2 points and won the official class title, Formula Windsurfing European Champion 2005. On the day's racing he said, 'It was a big fight with Wojtek. Today the wind was lighter and I screwed up the first race. But through the whole regatta I sailed very consistent. So I was able to discard this result and caught Wojtek. Rhodes is a good place. I hope to return next year.' In second place followed BRZOWSKI with 22.9 points. BUZIANIS took third with 24.8 points. WILLIAMS was fourth with 34.4 points whilst Steve ALLEN (AUS) completed the top five with 37.7 points.
